Sculptress (2000)

BONE CHILLING!

The Sculptress surely won't let you sleep. The film is riveting from beginning to end. As the plot progresses your body begins to quiver with fear. There are many clever curve balls in the story thrown in by Ian Merrick. Sara (Katie Write) is a perfect lead. It is hard to believe that this is her first on-screen feature – Mr. Merrick's material serves her well! Dobie (Jeff Fahey) portrays the mad man with a compelling sensitivity. Patrick Bauchau's performance is captivating, his performance wonderfully fierce. All in all just for the experience it's worth a trip to the movies to see Ian Merrick's Sculptress!
